

BOILING FLOOD WATERS BRING NEW MENACE TO FOUR STATE AREAS; JOHNSTOWN SAVED FROM CATASTROPHE BY RECEDING OF RAMPAGING RIVER; 8 TO 15 LIVES LOST

Pittsburgh Virtually Isolated by Rising Waters of Three Rivers—Railroad Traffic Suspended—Business District Under Water—Thirty Feet of Water Expected to Flood Williamsport—Delaware Is High

(By International News Service)

Boiling flood waters brought a new menace to a four-state area today as Johnstown, Pa., the key city of an industrial empire, was saved from catastrophe by receding of the rampaging river.

The situation at a glance:

Johnstown—8 to 15 reported dead in Johnstown and nearby cities. Flood waters receding, but business district still submerged under 15 feet of water. State police, militia and Red Cross began relief work.

Pittsburgh—Virtually isolated by rising waters of the Ohio, Monongahela and Allegheny rivers. Railroad traffic suspended. Business district under water.

Harrisburg—West branch of the Susquehanna river rising. Unconfirmed reports that Austin Dam had gone out. Similar report that railroad crews marooned near Ketur.

Williamsport—Officials predicted more than 30 feet would flood Williamsport before nightfall, and the Susquehanna continued to rise. More than 3,000 persons evacuated their homes to seek shelter. Communities to the north and west of Williamsport report flood levels of from 4 to 8 feet, higher than a week ago.

Easton—Delaware and Lehigh rivers rising to flood level, leaving banks in many areas. River men predict the Delaware will exceed 30 feet flood level reached during last week's flood.

Williamsport, Md.—Hundreds reported marooned by the rising Potomac. At Cumberland, Wills Creek which inundated the business section during the night was reported receding.

Staunton, Va.—34 school children rescued. Shenandoah Valley under water. Orchards and crops ruined. Waynesboro flooded.

Albany—Up-State New York hit by sleet storm. Rivers rising. Flood stages predicted for Albany and Troy.

Binghamton—The Susquehanna and Shenango rising and residents fleeing. Many schools closed. Whitney Point under water.

JOHNSTOWN, Mar. 18.—Turbulent flood water that for a time threatened to reach proportions of the Great Flood of 1889, which took 2,800 lives, were receding today.

Meanwhile, with damage reported in the millions, and death tolls reported varying from 8 to 15, Federal and State agencies, joined forces with the army and Red Cross workers to bring aid to the harassed victims.

Governor George H. Earle directed General Edward C. Shannon, head of the Pennsylvania National Guard to fly to Johnstown and assume command. General Shannon will also command WPA workers assigned to rehabilitate with his National Guard unit.

Meanwhile, the rivers in Pittsburgh raced on to a record high stage of 43 feet expected today. Early this morning the Allegheny and the Monongahela reached a stage of 41.6 feet, 16.6 feet above flood stage. Trolley and automobile service was demoralized.

In Johnstown, the gas supply, electricity and telephone service were shut off adding to the hardships of the refugees, most of who were huddled atop West Monthill.

At 6.30 this morning, the waters had fallen seven feet from their crest which sent them foaming through the business district.

The fall did not begin until terrific damage had been inflicted upon this city which was still virtually isolated.

Death Occurs at Croydon For Joseph B. Wilde

CROYDON, Mar. 18.—Death occurred yesterday for Joseph B. Wilde, Croydon, husband of Carrie Wilde. He had been a resident of this village for several years.

The Rev. Percy Brown, rector of All Saints' P. E. Church, Torresdale, will officiate at the funeral service on Friday at two p. m. from Molden's funeral home, 542 Bath street, Bristol. Interment will be made in All Saints Cemetery, Torresdale. Friends may call Thursday evening between the hours of seven and nine.

King On Throne

London, England, Mar. 18.—Seated on his golden throne in Buckingham Palace, King Edward today held the first state levee of his reign.

Some six hundred male "debutantes" made their bows—just as society girls from all over the world curtsy at the Royal Court—in a forty minute ceremony.

The Duke of York and the Duke of Kent, both in naval uniform, were among those in the Royal circle surrounding the throne.

Shot Down By Planes

Rome, Mar. 18.—Italian war planes today shot down and destroyed two of Emperor Haile Selassie's personal planes, and were believed to have come near trapping the Emperor himself.

Description of the planes was reported in the official military communique and International News Service learned exclusively the war craft were personal machines of the Emperor.

Since these planes are never far from the Emperor, the Italian aviators were believed to have narrowly escaped the Emperor.

France Asks Aid

London, Mar. 18.—France has asked that British and Italian troops be sent to aid French forces defending the French frontier opposite the Rhineland, International News Service learned today.

This suggestion was the French answer to the Anglo-German proposal that a neutral zone be created when the Franco-German frontier is equally distant from each country. France flatly rejected this plan.

The Franco-German border issue occupied the powers, while they awaited the arrival of the German delegation in London for tonight's meeting of the League of Nations Council. The delegation was expected to arrive about 6 p. m. (1 p. m. eastern standard time).

France, Belgium and Russia want indictment for Germany, while Britain pushed for a peaceful compromise. Representatives of Britain, France, Belgium and Italy convened at the Foreign Office at 12.25 p. m., and the French suggestion was the first topic of discussion.

CHARTER RECEIVED BY THE ANDALUSIA P. T. A.

Mrs. John A. Flood, New Hope, Speaks Relative To "Child Welfare"

VARIETY OF QUESTIONS TO BE PUT TO LECTURER

Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree Ready to Aid in Home-Making Problems

COMING FOR 4 NIGHTS

"Please tell me how to make a good meringue" is one of the questions asked most frequently of Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree who opens her big Cooking School next Tuesday in Bristol M. E. Church lecture room.

"The answer to that is easy and to a lot of other questions which bother good housekeepers and keep them struggling in their kitchens," declared Mrs. Crabtree. "My kitchen at the Cooking School will show the newest ways and means of simplifying all cookery, and my daily talks will cover all these bothersome points on technique, ingredients, oven temperature and every other step in simple cookery."

As plans for the big Cooking School at Bristol M. E. Church lecture room next week draw to a close, it is more and more evident that there will be a mighty good time had by everyone who attends. Questions asked by the women who attend will receive a prompt answer and a correct one. But every pupil is urged to take a note book or some paper, one or two sharpened pencils or a fountain pen, besides a pair of good ears and a nose to smell the good things cooking on the platform. She will need a pair of eyes to see how Mrs. Crabtree mixes, stirs and beats while she talks. Dishes go into the oven and out again. She will make a gorgeous salad one day, ice a

Those present: Cecelia and Betty Lippincott, Cecelia Walker, Ann Oliver, Ruth Ann Terneson, William Terneson, Pauline Stetson, Betty Donnelly, Helen Grow, Raymond Gallagher, Robert and James Townsend.

Soby Post Auxiliary Conducts March Meeting

LANGHORNE, Mar. 18.—Gathering in the Memorial House, Monday evening, 14 members of American Legion Auxiliary, Jesse W. Soby Post, conducted the March business meeting, with Miss Katherine Keating in charge.

A card party, one in the tournament series of the Post and Auxiliary, is scheduled for April 7th, at the Community House. Another blanket club is planned for.

Mrs. Warren Randall was named delegate to the bi-county council meeting to be held in Pottstown tomorrow. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ernest Robinson and Mrs. Harry Bergbauer. Those named on this committee for next month are Mrs. Ralph Bentley and Mrs. Warren Bilger, Sr.

Planning for Ball To Be Staged at Langhorne

YARDLEY, Mar. 18.—Thursday evening the committee which is arranging for an International Ball to be held at the Langhorne Country Club, on Friday evening, April 17th, met at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Packer.

It was reported that Jack Wright's Penn Troubadours had been engaged to furnish the music. There will be dancing and cards from nine 'till one. Extensive plans for decorations are being made, and another sub-committee is planning for the refreshments.

The ball is being given for the benefit of the educational work of the National Council for the Prevention of War.

THE FARLEYIZED WPA

(New York American, March 10, 1936)

INCOMPETENCE. GRAFT. DICTATORIAL POLITICAL POWER. FAILURE.

That is the net result of the Roosevelt-Ickes-Hopkins system of National "relief" which is known as the WPA.

Add to those results boondoggling and the seizure of many units in the WPA by the Communists, and we have one of the most disgracefully muddled experiments ever undertaken in American history.

In Pennsylvania, according to ex-Governor Gifford Pinchot, the WPA Administration has reached the point where the funds intended to relieve the destitute are being used in the attempt to swing Pennsylvania to Roosevelt next Fall.

Mr. Pinchot makes this sweeping charge:

"PERSONS ON RELIEF ARE REQUIRED TO CONTRIBUTE PART OF THEIR COMPENSATION TO THE DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN COFFERS."

Black and white evidence of this charge is found in the publication of the letter of Harry W. Fee, Chairman of the Indiana Democratic County Committee, of Pennsylvania, to Mary C. Shearer, of the Emergency Relief Area of Indiana, Pennsylvania, wherein she is bluntly told that unless SHE CONTRIBUTES $27 TO THE INDIANA COUNTY CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE, "IT WILL BE NECESSARY TO PLACE YOUR NAME ON THE LIST OF THOSE WHO WILL NOT BE GIVEN CONSIDERATION FOR ANY OTHER APPOINTMENT AFTER THE TERMINATION OF THE EMERGENCY RELIEF WORK."

Is this the "more abundant life" or just common old-line Tammany SHAKE-DOWN?

In West Virginia, as Senator Rush D. Holt has revealed, the same WPA methods of bleeding the needy and helpless through the nose for Farley's political machine are used.

Senator Holt, a Democrat, has uncovered graft and incompetence everywhere throughout his State in the Administration of Hopkins' WPA.

He had this to say:

"THE RECORDS I HAVE SCRUTINIZED HAVE CONVINCED ME THIS IS THE MOST DISGRACEFUL HANDLING OF PUBLIC MONEY I HAVE EVER SEEN."

The story is the same from every State—the WPA and the millions who are employed on its grotesque undertakings are being KNEADED INTO A STANDING POLITICAL ARMY WHICH IS A GROWING THREAT TO THE STABILITY OF THE REPUBLIC.

President Roosevelt has been appealed to by ex-Governor Pinchot to end a scandal that may develop into a NATIONAL POLITICAL CALAMITY. The President has not answered.

Why should he?

His man Farley needs this vast army next Fall to pull the fat of success out of the fires of popular indignation at NATIONAL CRACKPOTISM.

These millions of WPA workers are now in the position of Stalin's workers: IF THEY DO NOT VOTE "RIGHT," THEY STARVE.

The graft and the incompetence, the Communism and the boondoggling in the WPA, as bad as they are, are not as formidable a threat to the very foundations of this nation as is the fact that there is now an army of ten to sixteen million voters who are absolutely in the grip of a man who is practicing Tweedism and Crokerism on a national scale—TAMMANY JIM FARLEY.

ENGINEERING FORCE TO STUDY NEW ROAD PLANS

Numerous Details Involved In Several Highway Programs

WINTER PLAYED HAVOC

HARRISBURG, Mar. 18.—Engineering details involved in the several highway programs—State and Federal—now under way; and unusual maintenance demands resulting from extreme conditions during the winter will be discussed in two conferences of key men called today by Warren VanDyke, Secretary of Highways.

Nearly 800 members of the field and central office forces are expected to participate in the sessions which will be held in the Forum of the Education Building here this month and next month.

District engineers, their assistants, project and resident engineers, inspectors, design men, etc.—about 400 in all—will join in the first meeting for the construction personnel which will convene March 25 for a three-day session.

The second conference which will attract about 350 maintenance men—engineers, county superintendents, account clerks, etc.—will open April 1 and continue for three days.

The March session will be devoted to a thorough explanation of procedure on the several Federal programs—Federal-aid, Works Program Highway, Works Program Grade Crossing; the April session will have to do with general maintenance necessitated by the current winter and an explanation of work being done under department direction by WPA labor.

NURSERY SCHOOL MAY BECOME REALITY HERE

Meeting Planned for Friday Evening to Discuss Such a Project

APPROVED BY THE WPA

A nursery school for Bristol will become a reality in the near future.

The project has been approved by the State WPA Adult Education and Recreation Program and the only remaining obstacle in the opening is the housing problem here. This was disclosed at the meeting of the advisory council for the WPA program in Bucks County. Richard M. Fox, head of the Educational Project in Bucks County, announced also that many other new projects have been approved for his county and will include for the most part, rural educational classes which have been requested by small outlying townships.

The nursery school committee in Bristol has been called together by C. Russell Ellis, and will meet Friday at eight p. m., at 305 Wood street, in an attempt to solve the housing difficulty and to provide a nursery school for Bristol. Representatives of organizations have been invited.

Mrs. Abbie C. Enders, supervisor specialist of Nursery Schools in suburban Philadelphia, at this council meeting will describe routine of nursery schools.

SON FOR MARSHALLS

Mr. and Mrs. John William Marshall, 238 Cedar street, are the proud parents of a son born Tuesday in Dr. J. Fred Wagner's hospital.

3-DAY RUMMAGE SALE

Numerous Arrests Are Made By Highway Patrol

The Highway Patrol is still active in the campaign to make the highways safe and almost daily arrests are being reported in this area and fines are imposed.

Two traffic law violators were given hearings before Justice of Peace Leo Lynn at Edgely and fines and costs were imposed in each case.

Clement Bowers, Philadelphia, and Isidore Damico, Trenton, N. J., were both charged with passing through a stop sign. Both arrests were made by Patrolman H. E. Hand. Several cases were heard by Justice of the Peace John Melvin, of Fallington. William Ficus, of 8024 Ellingson avenue, Philadelphia, was arrested by Corporal Evans of the State Highway Patrol and taken before the Justice for disorderly conduct. He was fined $10 and costs.

Albertus Vaughn, of New York City, and Ralph W. Barnes, of Maplewood, N. J., arrested by Patrolman Desch, of the State Highway Patrol, for motor vehicle violations, were arraigned before Squire Melvin and each was fined $5 and costs.

Checked by Patrolman Diem, of the highway patrol, speeding at the rate of 52 miles an hour, Walter G. Paris, of Merchantville, New Jersey, was fined $10 and costs by the Justice.

Roy Martin, of Trenton, charged with a motor vehicle violation by Patrolman Butcavage, was fined $10 and costs.

When Patrolman Reitz, of the highway patrol, arrested Thaddeus B. Ernest, of Philadelphia, and arraigned him before Squire Melvin, Ernest was fined $5 and costs.

LIFE BEGINS

Life doesn't rally begin at 40 or at 8:40, as we have been told, respectively, by a practical philosopher and a playwright. Life really begins when a yellow crocus pushes the earth aside, shoots out into daylight and bursts into bloom, to be followed shortly afterward by a tulip and a daffodil, while a robin stands hard by, an admiring witness to the emergence, and a bluebird sounds a welcome.

In fact, life is beginning just now because the vernal equinox has arrived with all of its traditional treasures—blue skies, soft zephyrs, a warm and friendly sun, birds and blossoms, all designed by the Great Master of the Universe to add joy to life.

But the new season has its practical phases which cannot be ignored. All serious-minded persons will soon busy themselves with spades and rakes, grass seed and fertilizer, with shears and paint brush and the innumerable other implements necessary to put the homestead and the surrounding estate in presentable condition.

This is the best of seasons, folks, one which brings rare opportunities to drink in full measure the sweet nectar of life. For even the poorest of God's children there is at least $100,000 worth of beauty. And it's all free.

EINSTEIN EXPLAINS

If we understand Professor Einstein's latest pronouncement, as of course we do not, it means that the advanced physicists have now reached that point in mathematics at which they can deduce nothing further from their formulas, and are compelled to invent the next step. His own contribution in the way of invention is a guess that gravitation and electricity work together to form matter.

But that theory, if it is accepted, merely leaves unsolved the question of what gravitation is, what electricity is, and why. In tackling these matters we enter, on the one hand, the borders of religion, and on the other, the field of taxation, not to mention rate-making.

We find, therefore, that the empirical quantum of the gravitation equation bridges the corpuscles of the material eschatology by subliminal energy evolved counter-clockwise out of analogous infinities—in other words, the spinning mouse, or the higher the fewer. Professor Einstein has explained it very clearly, but we are just a little dumb this spring.

A Harvard finding that women drivers are consistently inferior to men is counter to our experience. We know wives who have driven 300,000 miles and never touched a wheel.

Hollywood girls called "agers" can make a new gown look old in 20 minutes. It should be easy at this season, if they can find a pudle along a through truck route.

It is getting to the point where the average citizen doesn't care which side wins just so he gets to see the fight.

If the Government is so eager for people to own their homes, it might try inventing one with a steering wheel on it.

"DAUGHTERS OF VENUS"

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER XXV

And then, before Von Guerdon had time to say more, he was surprised to see two strangers enter the room without troubling to remove their hats. Both wore the lowering mien that plain clothes men universally affect.

"I'm afraid, gentlemen, you forgot to knock," Von Guerdon said, suddenly frigid.

"That's all right, buddy," replied the chunkier of the two. "Which of these girls is Katie Schmidt?"

The question was scarcely necessary, because at the mention of her name, Katie emitted a stifled cry, and much of the peach color suddenly went out of her new complexion.

"I guess that's her, all right," said the second detective with satisfaction. "Now don't start crying, sister. Nobody's gonna hurt you. Just be a good girl and come along."

If the detective expected Katie to whine or cry or pull back they were mistaken. That first low cry of alarm had misled them.

Her face had changed color, but her eyes began to gather something of the fierceness of a small animal caught in a trap.

"All right," she said almost angrily. "I'll go." There was a defiant shrug of her small shoulders.

"What's this all about?" Juliet asked sharply. "You're policemen, aren't you?"

"That's it, lady," replied the chunky one heartily. "Sorry to bust in this way, but it's our duty. We've been looking for this young lady quite some time. Ready sister?"

"But why are you arresting her?" Von Guerdon put in. "I'm sure the girl's not a criminal."

One of the detectives grinned. "The jury will decide that. If she'd ever got out of this place we'd never found her—the way she's changed her appearance. It's wonderful, ain't it, the way they can cure cross eyes? And she's had this here plastic surgery done, too—"

"What is the charge against her?" asked Juliet.

It was Katie herself who answered—a wrought-up youngster who, all at once, was trembling with a nameless emotion that was half anger and half satisfaction. There was a defiance, too, in the rasp of her voice, the fling of her glistening platinum head.

"I'll tell you what the cops want me for!" she blurted out. "They're gonna claim I stole the money to pay for getting myself remodeled. Then you lied to me about welling—what was it—a small farm?" Juliet asked sadly.

"I had to tell something didn't I?" demanded Katie angrily. "I never owned a chicken, much less a farm full of 'em. No, I was second maid out in Beverly Hills. The people was an old couple—dirty old rascals, they were. I knowed where they kept the money. Stinky things! They worked everybody to death for almost nothin'. I cleaned the rooms and made the beds and I caught on to the combination of the little safe in the wall of their bedroom."

"And you stole the money?" asked the chunky detective, scenting a quick confession and the resultant credit to himself.

"I don't say I did and I don't say I didn't," flung back Katie. "I was tired of looking like a scare-crow, that's all. You can put me in the penitentiary as long as you like, but you can't take away my beauty. I've got that! It's paid for and nobody can make me give it up!"

She was very nearly in a rage by now, an erect, little figure of small swelling curves and pencilled brows. Silvery lights glinted on her shimmering head. She was breathing heavily. Her hands, once reddened and chapped, but now with a white kalsomined look, were clenched into compact little fists.

Juliet saw all this and experienced a hot dissolving sensation around her heart.

"Poor little thing," she thought, "Oh, the poor little child!"

Really Katie was scarcely more than a child, and now, after her reckless outburst, she was beginning to cry.

Katie had made her desperate defiance of society, but she was not hardened enough to sustain the brazen attitude. The tears came now copious and sudden like a spring shower, a wet rush that started the mascara running and left blackish streaks down her face.

At the sight of this, Von Guerdon was moved—though it was futile enough—to pat her on the back.

"You'll be all right, you'll be all right," he kept repeating helplessly. "Yeah, dry your face and come along, sister," said the detective, not unkindly.

But Katie had flung her small, sobbing body into Juliet's arms, clinging dingly and tenaciously to her last hold on freedom. Juliet tried to talk to her, but what was there to say?

"Yes, yes, I understand everything, Katie," she whispered with a feeling that in another minute

Juliet, against her will, was now spending almost every evening with Madame Hubert and O'Hara.

The old lady had been removed from the hospital to her home, where she held court in a huge canopied bed, propped up with silken cushions and clad in a pink quilted affair that engulfed her like a mandarin's robe.

The spinal operation had been sensationally successful.

Before long she would be up and about with her usual cricket-like briskness. Her bent back would be straight; she spoke of this with a delight that contrasted oddly with her former lack of personal vanity.

It was Saturday night and neither O'Hara nor Juliet cared particularly to spend a long and aimless evening with the Madame, inas-she would be sobbing herself. "It's all right, darling. You couldn't help it, could you? I know you're not a thief, honey. Juliet knows! Don't worry—I'll stand by you. Do you hear? I'm going to stand by you." Juliet managed to disentangle herself, to turn and face the detectives.

"And you stole the money?" asked the chunky detective, scenting a quick confession and the resultant credit to himself.

"Look here, we can't let them put this child in the penitentiary," she said, her own voice shaking. "She stole the money and spent it here in this Institute. Well, I am in charge of this place and we're going to refund every cent she took. It will all be paid back, every penny. Can't she be paroled or the charges dismissed or something?"

"Lots of girls get paroled," sobbed Katie.

"There's nothing really wrong with the girl," Juliet argued. "If you'll let her off, I'll promise to look after her myself. She's only a child. I'll take her in my own home and keep her. It's too perfectly hideous to send her to prison. All she wanted was beauty—she was almost a deformity and she wanted to look like other girls. Maybe I'd have done the same thing myself."

The detectives looked from one to another in that wise way detectives have. Perhaps they, too, were somewhat touched, if such things can happen to detectives.

"Well, it's up to you lady," said one of them. "I guess you might be able to spring the case on that basis. Looks like Katie landed in a soft spot, don't it, Mike?"

Katie lifted a tear stained face to Juliet and Von Guerdon.

WELL-BALANCED PROGRAM AT CROYDON ARENA

CROYDON, Mar. 18.—The fight program for tonight at the second show sponsored by the Daggart A. C. at the Arena has been completed. According to Matchmaker Charlie Daggart, 19 thrilling bouts are scheduled among which are to be found several champions and near champions with enough local boys to equally balance the program.

In the first bout Frank Marbella, 145 lb. Daggart boy, will meet Buck Stanson of Seymour. Tony De Angelo and George Jones, a couple of welterweights, fight it out in the second bout, while George Calhoun, of Daggart, battles Johnny Wilko, of Seymour, in the third.

Stan Jackowski will meet Joe Hayworth in a return engagement with the clever former champion, Henry Plink meeting Willie Lucas in another three rounder, Billy Crawford, an old favorite, will fight it out with Tony Saranella, another Seymour youth. Jimmy Lefferts will tackle Jimmy Nocito, in a return fight, their third in as many weeks. Vernon Woodland, the new 118 lb. Middle Atlantic Champion, will meet Frank Tomasella, in another scrap.

In the semi-windup Jack Carter, a heavy wallowing 160 pounder, will battle Joe Duhdah in a return battle, with Jimmy Tygh, the little Irish whirlwind, meeting Johnny Giordano, the 1936 Middle-Atlantic 126 lb. champion in the wind-up.

William Seibold reports a heavy sale of tickets for this show but still has some choice reserved seats left. Call Bristol 2939 for reservations.

MOOSE AND RANGERS MOVE INTO DEADLOCK

The Moose Musketeers moved into a deadlock with the Third Ward Rangers by trimming them last night on the Italian Mutual Aid floor before a large crowd. The final score of the tilt stood: Moose, 43; Rangers, 25.

It was at the latter half of the third session that the Musketeers caged enough points to put the game in the bag. Before this spurt, the Mooers had a short lead of 19-16. At the start of the period neither team counted for five minutes until Parker made a double-decker for the Warders.

This set the spark for the fireworks, but not for the Pikers for the Moose began to sink field goals in great rapidity. Ernie Birchenough arched two into the net and these were followed by double-deckers by Lawrence and Dugan. From then on it was just coasting to victory for the McGinleys.

Birchenough grabbed the scoring honors for the Moose with six twin-pointers and a pair of fouls. For second honors, Herb Lawrence and Eddie Dugan had nine points each. Lou Parker was the chief counter for the losers with five two-pointers.

The Third Ward and Moose teams will battle it out for the second-half championship tomorrow night on the Mutual Aid floor. A capacity house is expected to attend.

"Gym" Team To Put On Exhibition Here Tonight

The Fathers' Association of the Bristol public schools will meet this evening for its regular monthly meeting in the high school auditorium. The feature of the evening's entertainment will be an exhibition by the championship Bristol high school gymnasium team, assisted by other members of the gymnasium squad.

The team recently became champions of the entire Philadelphia suburban district when it defeated the acrobats of Upper Darby high school. Pico, who held the record for rope climbing in the amateur field until last Saturday, will participate. Coach William E. Dougherty has announced that this gymnasium exhibition will be the most elaborate and finest performance of acrobatic skill and perfection he has ever attempted. Because of anticipated large attendance, admission is being limited to members of the Association.

Reports on the card party recently held jointly with the Mothers' Association will be submitted at the business meeting. Members who have not yet accounted for tickets forwarded to them are requested to do so at the meeting this evening.

YVON ROBERT TONIGHT TO WRESTLE EMIL DUSEK

TRENTON, Mar. 18.—Yvon Robert, sensational young French-Canadian, who in a short space of time has developed into the leading drawing card in the wrestling game, will again display his wares at the Arena tonight, opposed to Emil Dusek, wildest and wooliest of the Omaha wrestling clan.

It will be a two fall out of three match, 30-minute time limit, and will mark the third appearance here this season of the classy Canuck. In his first showing he immediately got in solid with the fans by downing the villainous Dr. Len Hall. He incapacitated Hall with his potent rolling arm-scissors so badly that the doc was unable to return to the mat after the first fall.

In his second match, it fell to the lot of Robert to tussle with the Blue Mask and to the great delight of the packed house, he took two straight falls and unmasked his opponent as John Katan.

Now he faces the toughest task in Emil Dusek, who has a habit of winning his local appearances. Dusek is one of the toughest, shiftest and gamest men in the game and to boot, knows every "dirty" trick in the book.

It figures to be one of the fastest and most gruelling bouts ever contested at the Arena.

In the supporting bouts, Joe Cox, Ohio badman, meets the rowdy John Swenski, Dr. Len Hall tangles with Abe Goldberg, and Ed Mesko, handsome favorite, faces Dobie Osborne of Texas.

Walter L. Bowyer, who returned on Tuesday from a trip to Chattanooga, Tenn., was married in Georgia Friday to Miss Eva K. Bolden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bolden. Mr. Bowyer and his bride will make their home with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bowyer, Sr., State Road. Mrs. Bolden, mother of the bride, is also a visitor at the Bowyer home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schumacher, of Newportville, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, George William.

ODD FELLOWS KEEP UP SCORING ORGY

The Odd Fellows, first-half champions, continued their scoring orgy in the Bristol Amateur League by amassing a 42 to 16 score against the Hibernians in the first game last night. The Hibs were never in the contest with the Oddies.

The fray served for just a practice game for the Oddies who seemed to count at will. They passed rings around their foes and easily outplayed them in all departments of the game. Hines was high scorer for the winners with 14 points. Hughes followed with ten. Eddie Roe led the losers by hitting the cords three times.

The Odd Fellows will meet the pick of the league, Thursday night.

Boiling Flood Waters Bring New Menace

from communication with the world save for a short wave radio set.

Broken communication lines made estimates of the death toll difficult but authorities said a total of from eight to possibly 15 persons had died in the watery onslaught in Western Pennsylvania. From three to ten were reported dead in Johnstown, four near Indiana and one in Pittsburgh.

Johnstown was still a city almost utterly cut off from the world. Train, bus and motor traffic was impossible and virtually all telephone service was down.

Although the streams fell in Johnstown, rivers in the Pittsburgh district continued to climb steadily, reaching a stage of 40 feet at the "point" where the Allegheny and Monongahela join, creeping up into the city's streets, flooding homes, stores, office buildings and factories.

Central Pennsylvania was still ravaged by flood waters which were reported to have broken dams, marooned train crews and threatened the lives of scores of trapped victims.

Disrupted communication lines were general throughout the flood region. Damage was reckoned in the millions. Food and milk shortages and danger of illness and pestilence lurked throughout the ravaged districts.

Broken communication lines made any accurate check of the dead, dying, missing and injured immediately impossible.

Ocean-Going Vessel Halted At Bridge Here

the north side of the Burlington-Bristol bridge. She reached the bridge at 8.30 and cleared, going back to Philadelphia at nine o'clock.

The Heffron was advised to return to Philadelphia by the bridge-tender who had received word from Trenton that conditions were such at the Trenton Marine Terminal that it would be difficult for the boat to dock.

The Heffron was from Everett, Washington and the turning of such a large craft in the river at this point was quite a feat. Water pushed over the lowlands as the boat made the turn.

The water at the Bristol Water Works this morning was about even with the top of the dock at high water. This means that the water was about three feet above normal at this point.

In the Edgely section the water at a point off the Paterson Parchment Paper Company plant was reported as being about 2 feet and six inches lower than on March 13th, when flood conditions prevailed. The water at the Bristol Water Works on March 13th was four feet above normal.

Nursery School May Become Reality Here

sery schools where the children of underprivileged families are taught proper habits for rest, play and toiletting. She states there were at least 50,000 children in the nursery schools last year and there will be many more this year.

"It would be unfortunate," she declared, "if Bristol could not take advantage of the opportunity now offered them."

Previous to the advisory council meeting, Mr. Fox will conduct a staff meeting of all teachers in Bucks County, among whom are John H. Rich, head teacher of the classes conducted at the old Wood street school building, and eight other teachers who are working with classes here.

Variety of Questions To Be Put To Lecturer

cake, make a meltingly good pie, turn out a roast worthy of the finest chef in the land.

"The women of Bristol and vicinity are urged to bring their housekeeping problems, especially their cookery questions to the Cooking School," said Mrs. Crabtree in an interview about the School.

As a setting for the cookery demonstrations a kitchen is being constructed on the stage of Bristol M. E. Church lecture room. It is to be a real kitchen with the range attached and working, a refrigerator, kitchen cabinet, work tables, and all the small necessary utensils needed by Mrs. Crabtree in her work. She will talk from the midst of this kitchen, making new dishes at the same time. Each day's program is different, filled with valuable, new information, suggestions, helps and ideas for housekeepers of every kind.

The brides of this vicinity are especially invited for Mrs. Crabtree feels that these new housekeepers will find the demonstrations unusually helpful and every discussion full of ideas which will solve the bothersome problems of a new kitchen and new duties.

But there are new recipes of great interest to experienced homemakers as well, to add to those which are already favorites in their homes; new methods of mixing and cooking; new theories about food preservation; new suggestions for cooking in the refrigerator. The modern housekeeper knows that her refrigerator not only keeps the family food at safe temperature, but it can make cakes for her, frozen desserts and salads to enliven the menus and in other ways simplify the cooking.

The Cooking School opens Tuesday at 8 o'clock, and continues through Friday evening. Gift baskets of groceries, dishes cooked on the platform, and many substantial gifts for the kitchen and house will be a part of the big gala program of Friday.

Every day's program contains surprises. Every day is free. The Courier urges every woman of this vicinity to be its guest at every session of this great homemaking event.

"Yes, I'll be there

I wouldn't miss any session of the . . .

BRISTOL COURIER COOKING SCHOOL

"And what's more, most all my friends have planned to attend also. From what I've heard this school will be unusually interesting. The lecturer is a nationally known authority on Foods and Home-making, and not only describes new recipes and new time-saving appliances but actually cooks and demonstrates right before your eyes. I hope to see you there."

Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree

"Her splendid work in cooking schools throughout the country has won for her a high place in the regard of alert, up-to-the-minute home managers. Her experience as a home manager and home-maker has given her a rare understanding and deep appreciation of the problems that face all home-makers today. Her complete demonstrations at each session will be interesting and easy to follow."
